Apghelix PF

It's a powerful active ingredient, natural and ecological, extracted from a defensive liquid secreted by the mollusk Helix Aspersa Muller. It is a complete and balanced solution for skin care products, created by a living creature to protect, restore, renew and hydrate its own skin.

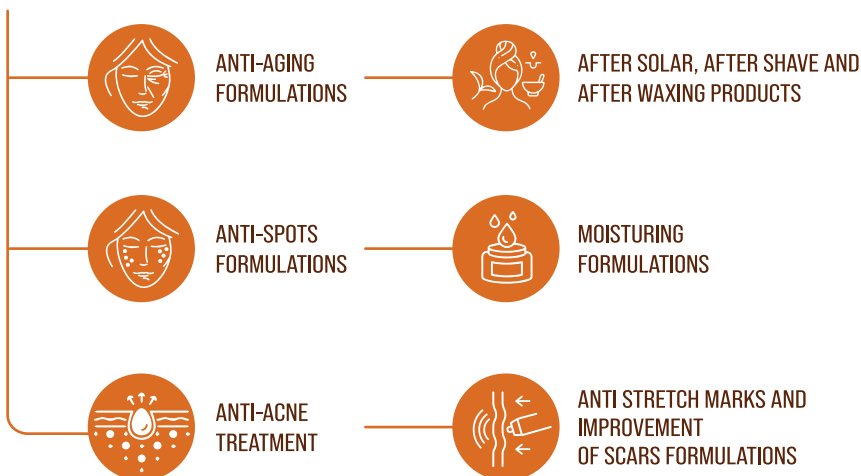

This secretion that the snail secretes when exposed to certain stimuli is rich in proteins and polysaccharides. This secretion helps it to repair its skin and protect itself when exposed to external aggression.

The snail secretion induces the proliferation and activation of fibroblasts and the increased production of collagen, elastic fibers and dermal Hyaluronic acid. It also encourages support through the facilitation of the assembly of the dermis.
